

Steph West

The harp is a lovely instrument to have at your wedding, creating a beautiful atmosphere whatever the occasion. Its gentle sounds carry across a room without intruding into conversation, and a harp can go where a piano cannot. The harp also blends well with other instruments, allowing any number of possible musical combinations.

I regularly play background music for public events and weddings. Previous venues include the Landmark Hotel (for TNG), The Old Library in the Custard Factory and St Martin's Church in Birmingham. I play a wide range of celtic music and can also provide Medieval and Renaissance music from Britain and Europe.

A harp is a great addition as a part of your Civil or Religious Ceremony, background music to accompany your wedding banquet or drinks reception.

Civil Ceremony / Church Ceremony:

- 20 - 30 minutes of music while the guests arrive
- Processional piece as the Bride enters
- Signing of the Registers
- 10 - 15 minutes as the guests leave the church.

The Bride and Groom normally choose the music for the Bride's Processional and during the Signing of the Registers. Please let us know if you have a special piece of music you would like to hear during these moments.

"Hertfordshire henceforth called Harpfordshire!"

John & Iain

---

"...a lovely delicate touch on the harp... a lovely, relaxed, assured set of beautiful music."

Judges at New Roots 2006